Hospital Based Programs

Boston Medical Center:

Counties Served: Middlesex, Bristol, Suffolk

Community Violence Response Team (Injury Prevention)

The Community Violence Response Team addresses the great need for services for victims of attempted homicide and their families as well as family survivors of homicide victims from the Greater Boston area. Free culturally sensitive, family-focused clinical services provided by the CVRT include crisis intervention, advocacy, case management, and short-term, trauma-focused counseling for adults, adolescents, and children (with a focus on age 8 and over). CVRT seeks to reduce the effects of trauma by providing therapeutic support throughout the recovery process and ultimately minimizing mental health trauma. CVRT staff reflects the diversity of BMC's patient population.

Child Witness to Violence Program

The Child Witness to Violence Project provides services at Boston Medical Center for child witnesses to domestic and community violence. Services include telephone referral and triage, assessment and ongoing counseling for young children (0- 8), and their non-offending parents, advocacy, and assistance with concrete services. Services are offered in English and Spanish.

Community Action of the Franklin, Hampshire, & North Quabbin Regions, Inc

Counties Served: Franklin, Hampshire, Worcester

Community Crisis Response Team

The Community Crisis Response Team VOCA program provides a coordinated, comprehensive, situation-specific response to any individual, group, or community in Franklin and Hampshire counties and the North Quabbin region that has been affected by crime. The primary goals of the Community Crisis Response Team (CCRT) program are: (1) to foster recover for those affected by criminal incidents; and (2) to nurture mutual support among those affected by this trauma. CCRT enables people to come together to talk about their experiences, process feelings and fears, plan effective actions, heal with others, and mobilize and connect to longer-term resources. Assistance may include counseling; consultations to enable a group to carry out its own response; support and/or training for direct care providers in trauma-informed practice; information and referrals; group interventions that help to accelerate the normal healing process; exposure to complementary therapies that redress stored physiological stress; and individual follow up. All services are free and confidential.
